Glenwood Systems, LLC releases EMR Practice Management and Medical Billing Process Improvement Program

Glenwood Systems, LLC (http://www.GlenwoodSystems.com) has launched a new program designed to identify and drive cost efficiencies, improve revenue opportunities and increase the percentage of contracted fees collected in a typical office based medical practice.  The new process seamlessly integrates EMR and Practice Management software to an assisted medical billing process providing the medical practice transparency to practice drivers.

Waterbury, CT Thursday April 2, 2009 --- Glenwood Systems LLC announced today the development of a practice management process designed to drive business practice efficiencies and improve physician revenue in an office based medical practice. The process employs a combination of software, process and service to improve medical practice revenue and reduce medical practice operation costs.  Designed and supported on an affordable web based platform, the program integrates easy to use EMR (electronic medical records) and practice management software combined with a proprietary medical billing process. GlaceComplete simplifies practice workflow, improves offices efficiencies, increases patient file security, frees office space, reduces operational cost and provides for new revenue opportunities while maximizing a steady collection of contracted fees billed and the capture of  CMS PQRI and e-Prescribing bonus payments. The program provides complete at a glance visibility to each of the medical practice business drivers and provides the physician transparency to the billed fees often written off.

"Physicians continuously update the clinical aspects of their medical practice to improve patient health. These same medical practices operate as they did 15 years ago, even though the cost to run the practice has outpaced inflation and reimbursements have declined significantly." states Nat Loganathan, Founder and CEO Glenwood Systems "We approach a medical practice from the revenue drivers so the physician can maximize return; software and process are the means to streamline efficiency and improve revenue. Our program process can drop as much as $100,000 in revenue and cost savings to the bottom line while increasing staff and patient satisfaction."

Glenwood will be presenting the Practice Management and Medical Billing process improvement program at the ACP Internal Medicine 2009 conference from April 23 – 25 in Philadelphia.
